

Promising Practices Guide – Acknowledgments

Survivors and Domestic Violence Program Staff - The Promising Practices Guide would not exist if it weren't for the many survivors who provided details of their own experiences through surveys and one focus group. We appreciate their willingness to share in the hopes that what we learn from them would impact the services provided to survivors in the future. Additionally, we acknowledge the domestic violence program staff who shared their practices and experiences through interviews and written documentation to inform this project and contribute to the collective knowledge and commitment to trauma-informed and racially just service for survivors across Virginia.

Family and Children's Trust Fund of Virginia - FACT provided financial support to this project to ensure survivors received incentives for their time and participation in the project. We appreciate the opportunity to materially value the survivor storytelling as these experiences informed the Promising Practices Guide entries.

Below is a list of the individuals who contributed directly to the project either in their daily work or in their attendance at quarterly Domestic Violence Action Team meetings:
